Dosimetric comparison of proton versus photon therapy for bilateral breast/chest wall and comprehensive nodal irradiation for synchronous bilateral breast cancer

Allison E Garda MD1, Sayeh Fattahi BS2, Ann K Michel RT(T) CMD1, Robert W Mutter MD1, Elizabeth S Yan MD1, Sean S Park MD1, Kimberly S Corbin MD1
1Department of Radiation Oncology 2Mayo Clinic Alix School of Medicine
Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, USA

Conclusions

Bilateral breast/chest wall and comprehensive nodal proton beam therapy for synchronous bilateral breast cancer is associated with improved target coverage and normal tissue sparing compared to 3D or IMRT photon therapy.

Proton beam therapy is an attractive treatment option for these complex patients.